

Dear Sirs,

My wife and I are writing in response to a Low Power FM radio station that we listen to in our local area on 88.7 called K-LOVE. Even though they are based somewhere else in the country they ARE our local radio station. We believe they must be otherwise listeners from many local communities would not support them and pay for the programming they provide (K-LOVE is listener supported). They may not have a local office in our community but with the World Wide Web everything we need from them is accessible over the internet. So we do not need a local store front to be able to visit if we want to review their records or make comments.

Please make sure you save room for such radio stations like K-LOVE when you review your localism rules.

Best Regards
Steve & Jennifer Omner
